Youth To Have Its Day

Next Wednesday afternoon hundreds of boys from public and parochial schools in the west Menlo Park area will fan out to area business houses and industrial establishments, working alongside adults of the community in the Menlo Park Lions Club's 21st annual Boys' Day event here.

The affair, under the chairmanship of Wallace Ott and Verne Frane, will be concluded the same evening with a dinner at Hillview school, at which participating eighth graders and their adult sponsors for the day will convene.

The same day, eighth grade girls of the area schools will participate in special Girls' Day activities, under the sponsorship of the Menlo Park Business and Professional Women's Club. (For details, see the society pages.)

Preparation for the annual affair have been under way for the past several weeks and Tuesday were climaxed with election of Boys' Day city officials at the schools.

The elections were conducted according to the same formulas used for regular city elections and registration, ballot boxes, and other paraphernalia and regular election techniques were applied.

Election boards made up of eighth grade girls at the schools handled this phase of the program.

CANDIDATES

Those who were candidates in the election were present at last night's regular meeting of the city council; the boys' day mayor and his fellow councilmen appointed them to other jobs.

Schools participating in the program this year include Oak Knoll, Hillview, Encinal, St. Joseph's and St. Raymond's. Menlo School, which has participated in previous Boys' Days was unable to do so this year because of program conflicts, but will be back in next year.

A committee made up of students is serving as an enterment committee, arranging amusements for which will be featured at the dinner next Wednesday night.

Stepping Aside for Youth . . . . . . Tuesday night, Menlo Park's Mayor William R. Lawson, standing, beamed his approval as five youthful city councilmen took over the reins of city government in the first phase of annual Boys Day observances. Left to right, the young councilmen are Peter Klein, "Mayor" David Havard, Bob Graby, David Hopkins, Bow Rogers.

Run the City:

Eighth Graders Take Over City Rule for 21st Time

As first public event in the annual observance of Boys Day, sponsored by the Menlo Park Lions Club, the youth of Menlo Park Tuesday night took over the reins of community government at the regular meeting of the city council.

As the first order of business, William Felkner, representing the Lions, introduced boys who had been elected to public office in voting held earlier in the week.

The five junior "councilmen" thereupon joined their elder counterparts on the rostrum and elected their own "mayor."

With the smooth operation of a well-oiled political machine, this honor was unanimously bestowed upon David Havard of Hillview School.

Other young members of the council were Bob Graby of St. Raymond's School; David Hopkins of Encinal; Peter Klein of Oak Knoll and Bow Rogers of Encinal.

Others elected as public officials were Fred Keast of Hillview, named city treasurer, and Paul White of St. Joseph's, city clerk.

Ray Cruickshank, vice-principal of Encinal, introduced the boys who had been named to appointive governmental positions. They included: Peter Benjaminson, city manager; John Dorrick, Menlo Park chief of police; Bevan Jones, Atherton chief of police; Jim Jertson, city attorney.

Dick Treat, building inspector; Paul Jordan, city librarian; Gary Davis, administrative assistant; Bob Collins, city engineer; Joe Morey ,assistant manager of public works, and Dick Nifwonger, city planner.

"Senior" Mayor William R. Lawson handed the gavel to Havard, who called for any questions, complaints or other matters of business that anyone might wish to bring before the council.

None were forthcoming.

"Everything seems to be in good shape, with no complaints," commented Lawson. "We should have you fellows run the city all the time."

Firemen Use Resuscitator, Save Tot Here

Menlo Park Fire District firemen yesterday chalked up another apparently life-saving using their resuscitator to restore the breathing of an 11-month-old infant.

The baby, Carolyn Bell, was brought to the East Palo Alto fire station by her mother, Mrs. Janet Bell, at 9:29 a.m. The child's breathing was apparently impeded by mucous in her throat.

Firemen said that she appeared to be "turning blue" when brought to the station.

They used their aspirator and called a doctor, they said.

The Bell family resides at 2576 Illinois street, according to firemen.

The call was the second in two weeks in which the firemen were called to the aid of an infant.

In the previous case, the child was found, not breathing, in its crib. Firemen were unable to save the child, and it was at first doubtful whether the baby strangled or died of pneumonia.

Boys' Club in Works

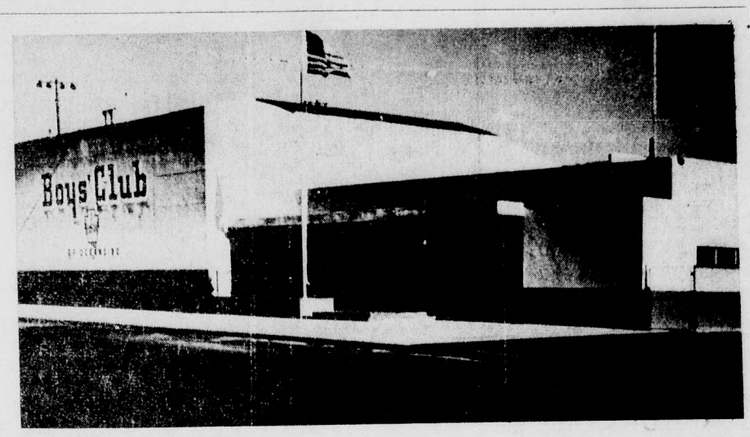

Organizers of a Menlo Park Boys' club, to operate a facility planned to be built at Ivy drive and Market place, were to have met last night to initiate plans for the actual start of construction.

They also were to have heard E. L. McKenzie, organizer for the Boys Clubs of America, describe the work of that organization as a preliminary to affiliating with it.

Actual start of construction may be only a few months off, Dave Daniels, Menlo Park Kiwanis Club representative to the Boys' Club board of directors, said this week. He explained that pledges of work and material have been secured from several trade unions in San Mateo County.

Boys' club backers residing in the Belle Haven area, several months ago initiated talks with the City of Menlo Park, aimed at acquisition of land in Belle Haven for a $125,000 meeting hall for boys.

The city has agreed thata former street rights of way, made useless by the Bayshore Freeway frontage road, could be used for this purpose.

Something for the Boys . . . . . . Representatives of various community service groups and other interested individuals were to have met at the Menlo Park city council chambers last night, to discuss organization for sponsorship of a Boys' club in Belle Haven. The local Boys' club sponsors hope to be able to get a building similar to that shown above, which is situated at Oceanside. The San Mateo county Central Labor Council has reportedly pledged complete support for the project.

Council Speeds Action

Menlo Park city councilmen this week set next Tuesday night as time for discussion of plans and time-tables for early construction of the city's new police station.

The project, approved last week by the city's voters in a whopping 5-to-1 stamp of approval, might be ready for occupancy "before Christmas," City Manager John R. Johnson guessed yesterday.

Expected to attend next Tuesday's session is Architect Kingsford Jones. Jones, who designed the city library building and formulated the recently approved master plan for eventual location of various civic center units, already has completed preliminary floor-plan studies of the new police headquarters.

TOO OPTIMISTIC?

Jones late yesterday told the Recorder that the "in-by-Christmas" guess sounded a bit optimistic.

"We are just beginning preliminary plans now," he said, "and after all plans are finally worked out, there is probably at least five months' worth of actual construction involved.

"The library took five months to build," he continued, "and the police station is a much more complicated structure."

Councilman Getting Over Pneumonia

City Councilman Michael L. Belangie is confined to his home with pneumonia, but is recovering and expects to be back on the job late this week.

The councilman, who resides at 428 Felton drive, took to his bed April 14. He had returned from a business trip to Chicago only a few days before that.

Tell Council:

No Parking Meters Planned For Depot Parking, SP Says

There won't be any parking meters at the Southern Pacific depot in Menlo Park, the city council learned Tuesday night from Joseph B. Haggerty, general passenger agent for the railroad.

At the same time the railroad made points with the council in its plan to close the Menlo Park station, and it looked as if the only protest against such a move might be withdrawn.

Such a withdrawal of the protest, originally entered by the Menlo Park Civic Interest League in a letter from H. Reid Whiting, would clear the way for the Southern Pacific to close the depot without having to go through a hearing before the state Public Utilities Commission.

Haggerty was present at the council's regular meeting to defend the railroad's plan. He pointed out the $5,000 annual saving that would be realized by eliminating ticket selling service at the depot here.

Most ticket sales take place on the first day or two of each month, he said. Furthermore, he pointed to the railroad's recently installed service of mailing commute tickets to those who request them. This service now accounts for about one-third of the tickets sold to Menlo Park commuters, and the percentage is growing daily, Haggerty said.

Whiting renewed his protest to closing of the station, expressing concern that such action might be only the first step toward further deterioration of commute service at Menlo Park.

To this Haggerty replied that Southern Pacific's recent expenditure of millions for new double-decked commuter cars proved the railroad was not intending to get out of the commute business.

He further assured Whiting and the city council that no reduction of service to and from Menlo Park was contemplated.

He then went on to state that the railroad also has no intention of putting parking meters at depot parkinf cailities here.

Haggerty deciared the railroad would provide shelter for its patrons. This would be done in one of two ways.

If the community preferred to keep the historic station, it would be boarded up to prevent vandalism and the present open roofed area at the north end would be enclosed on three sides. Otherwise, he said, Southern Pacific would be willing to tear down the old structure and replace it with a modern shelter.

Mayor William R. Lawson, noting that Whiting's first concern was for continuation of adequate commuter service, declared the city council, too, would always keep close watch on that phase of railroad operations.

Haggerty expressed the hope that Whiting's group would withdraw its protest to avoid the need for a PUC hearing. Whiting agreed the league would at least consider such a move "immediately."

Other members of the council, evidently in accord that the economy move would not seriously inconvenience local commuters, seemed inclined to accept the proposal.

A motion by Councilman Vaile Andrus that the council go on record as "not opposing" the action died, however, for want of a second.

Mayor Lawson pointed out that no council action was necessary.

ABSENTEES

Twenty-seven absentee voters of Menlo Park in the recent municipal bond election represented an almost perfect "statistical sample" of the electoratel

Count of their votes by the city council Tuesday night, during official canvass of the balloting, revealed that the 27 opposed and favored measures in almost the exact ratio as the 3943 voters who went to the polls.

The overall vote showed the police station bond measure being favored by 5 to 1. The absentees showed 22 yes votes to 5 noes.

The community activities building just missed the necessary 2 to 1 margin in the general balloting with 1.8 yes votes to each no. Absentee voters scored it at 17 yes votes, 9 noes.

The Willow road underpass measure was swamped by slightly more than 1.8 noes to each yes. Absentee voters called it 16 no, 10 yes.

Timetable Set For Laurel School Project

Menlo Park Elementary School District trustees, though expressing disappointment over a long time schedule which may not see completion of Laurel school until March 1 of next year, this week approved a tentative timetable setting that as completion date for the job.

They agreed that "misunderstanding" of terminology between the architect and school administrators than had first been foreseen, were among major items.

Jones said that he had proceeded cautiously with plans for the $400,000 complete school at Edge and Ringwood roads until after the March 31 bond election.

He explained that although he had been directed in January to "proceed with all possible haste" with preliminary plans, the school board had not made a firm commitment and, had the bond issue failed, the district would have incurred heavy unnecessary expenses anyhow.

With the bond issue successfully passed, he said, he looked for completion of plans by July 1; receipt of approval of them from the state one month thereafter and opening of bids about Aug. 21.

He said the same time schedule, roughly, could be applied to the plans for a proposed library and classroom addition at Oak Knoll school.

Architect William Daseking, representing the firm of Janssen Daseking and Keller, which will build a library unit at Hillview school, said he expected completion of that unit about Jan. 4.

The review of the longer time schedule, announced earlier this month at a meeting of the board of trustees, was prompted by protests from district patrons who said they had been under the impression that Laurel school would be ready for occupancy next September, if the district's March 31 issue was successful.

DEMOCRAT CENTRAL PANEL MEET STONIGHT

San Mateo county Democratic Central committee will meet tonight at 8 p.m. at the Menlo Park City council chambers, to continue a discussion of the pre-primary convention planned for the county in 1960. The meeting is open to the public.

Teacher Pay Boost Okayed For MP District

Menlo Park School District trustees this week agreed to give the district teachers a $75-a-year across the board pay increase and okayed another increase designed to keep experienced mentors with the district, at a total cost to the voters of an estimated $11,500.

They noted that the foreign language program which was cautiously started last year may not be augmented, since the district's budget estimates currently indicate only about $7250 remains unassigned.

After long discussion, the trustees agreed that present services of the district should be maintained. And they also said that next year they should spend about $3600 for yard duty personnel, to help relieve teachers of non-classroom assignments.

The plan to encourage experienced teachers to stay with the district was broached by the district teachers' salary committee earlier this month. It called for increasing pay of teachers $100, if they have been with the district four years or more.

There are 41 such teachers in the district at the present time.

Salaries of other district employees would have to go up and some additional people would have to be hired.

Pay of principals, vice principals and other classified employees of the district such as clerks and nurses will have to be raised, and administrative costs are going up, also.

Rewarding experienced teachers was discussed at length, since members of the teachers salary committee had apparently understood that the rewards after five years should be based on total teaching experience, while trustees had been under the impression it was based on years of experience in the district.

Local Entries:

Palo Alto Jaycees 'Pirate' Beauty Here

Palo Alto's Junior Chamber of Commerce last week kicked off the local beauty contest season, calling for candidates to contend for the title of Miss Palo Alto and, as last year, the first entries were from Menlo Park.

Pat and Leisha Gullison, twin daughters of Mrs. Elsie Gullison of 107 Clover lane, were first to sign.

Identical twins with 36-24-36 statistics and weights of 120 pounds, the pair of Menlo-Atherton High School graduates will compete as a single entry, James Wester, speaking for the Jaycees, said this week.

The two are following in the footsteps of Kathy Eggiman, of the unincorporated area between Menlo Park and Redwood City, who last last year's Miss Palo Alto representative at the Annual Santa Cruz "Miss California" judging.

Miss Eggiman was judged fourth girl in the state contest and was awarded a $250 scholarship; she has since been studying art at San Jose State College.

Wester said that, as far as he knows, the entering of identical twins is something new for the judges. He has checked with state officials and has found no evidence that it can't be done that away, he reports.

The girls are now professional models in San Francisco, and are attending College of San Mateo at night.

Both girls are 5' 7" tall. Their hobbies are swimming, modern dance and designing their own clothes.

The Palo Alto Jaycee group, explains Wester, has the job of canvassing the area from Atherton to Mountain View for entries in the state contest. There's still time for more entries to make themselves known, he added since the local judging is slated for May 9.

Wester said Jim Herrick, DA 6-3296, has more information and entry blanks for girls who want to join in the contest.

It's the Season . . . . . . when beauty contest promoters come out of hiding, and among the first of the hunters in the Menlo Park area are the members of the Palo Alto Junior Chamber of Commerce. This year, for their first entry in the annual "Miss Palo Alto contest," they have Leisha and Pat Gulfison of Menlo Park. Jim Herrick of the Jaycees tries to tell them apart as 1958's "Miss Palo Alto," Kathy Eggiman, also of Menlo Park, looks on at right.

Bids Called for Alpine Signal

Menlo Park's city council Tuesday night set May 12 as date for opening of bids on improvement of the intersection of Alpine road, Santa Cruz avenue and Stanford's Junipero Serra boulevard.

The council previously had delayed calling for bids on the project to study possibility of widening pavement at one point to provide more storage space for automobiles awaiting a chance to turn left from Alpine on Santa Cruz.

The change can be made easily, "for a few hundred dollars," City Engineer Edwin H. Smith reported to the council, while the work is in progress.

Taylor Speaks Before Rotary

Chuck Taylor, Athletic director of Stanford university and a resident of Menlo Park, yesterday discussed "What is Happening in the Pacific Coast Conference," before members of the Menlo Park Rotary club.

Scene of the talk was the club's regular weekly meeting at the Fraternal meeting hall at 645 Roble avenue.

Atherton Hills Baptists Move Sunday

This Sunday the Atherton Hills Baptist church will hold its last church school classes and morning worship service at the Encinal School in Atherton.

On May 3 they will move to their new building on Altschul avenue and Camino a los Cerros.

The church group has been meeting at the Encinal school since September when it was known as the Atherton Baptist Fellowship. In January the group officially organized as a church and opened charter membership.

It was then that the name was changed to Atherton Hills Baptist Church. Since January 58 charter members have been received and a chapel and educational unit have been constructed on their new site. At 2:30 p.m. on May 3 the official dedication service for the new building will be held.

Dr. Cecil Osborne will be the special speaker for the occasion. Dr. Osborne is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Burlingame, the sponsoring church of the Atherton Hills Baptist church.

City Denies New Damage Claim

A claim for damages amounting to $107.33 against the city of Menlo Park was denied Tuesday night by the city council.

The claim was entered by Paul Hulton of 440 Gilbert avenue, who charged that a tree had fallen across the front of his automobile on Gilbert in February and damaged it in that amount.

City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr. declared that denial of the claim was merely a jurisdictional move to place the matter in the hands of the city's insurance carrier.

Stanford Research Institute To Expand Rocket Research

(SRI) — Stanford Research Institute is planning its research program in the field of rocket propulsion, it was announced this week by E. Finley Carter, president of the Institute.

"We are taking this action in response to the growing needs for new and improved propellants and propulsion devices in both space exploration and missile development programs," Carter stated.

According to Carter, SRI's existing propulsion systems research program will continue in the Physical Sciences Division under the guidance of Dr. Nevin Hiester, manager, Chemical Engineering Section, and a member of the Surveillance Panel, Army-Navy-Air Force Solid Propellant Group.

Dr. Hiester also is a member of the National Research Council Advisory Board panel on plasma phenomena.

Others associated with the Physical Sciences propulsion program are Dr. Henry Wise, manager Chemical Dynamics Section, and Rudolph Thiele mann, chairman of SRI's metallurgy Department and chairman of the Materials Committee NASA.

In addition to the long-standing physical sciences research effort, a new propulsion group has been created within the Institute's Poulter Laboratories, headed by Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, as associate director of SRI. This group has been formed concurrent with the beginning of a major contract research propram on propellants for United Research Corporation.

Dr. Blumberg Gets Grant For Research

(SRI)—Mr. Mark S. Blumberg, operations analyst at Stanford Research Institute has been awarded a $19,630 grant from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to study the feasibility of automation in hospitals.

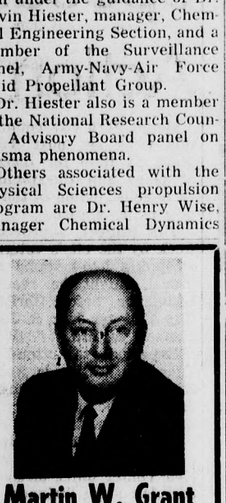

As principal investigator for the project, Dr. Blumberg will examine the roles of people and machines in a selected sample of hospitals throughout California. The project is expected to last approximately nine month and will concentrate on the economic aspects of automation.

Dr. Blumberg has been on the SRI staff since 1956. He holds an M.D. degree from Harvard Medical School, and was formerly with the Public Health Service in Washington, D.C.

Since joining SRI, Dr. Blumberg has been directing the Institute's health economic program. His projects have included studies for the East Bay Children's Hospital, the Samuel Merritt Hospital of Oakland, and an evaluation of hospital needs on the island of Oahu.

Dangerous Curve Getting Less So . . .

. . . A deadly curve on Sand Hill road just west of Marsh road intersection, which has claimed 12 lives and been the scene of dozens of accidents during the past few years, is being straightened as a part of the grade realignment of that thoroughfare, slated eventually to become a freeway. Eastbound drivers, fooled by the apparently easy curve, were often thrown off the pavement when, owing to a relatively sudden drop, their autos lost traction.

SRI Scientists Switch Jobs Here, Overseas

(SRI)—Dr. Donald L. Benedict, director of the physical sciences division at Stanford Research Institute, left this week for Zurich, Switzerland, to assume management of the institute's European office for the next 18 months.

Dr. Robert M. Burns, who has been the director of the European office since its establishment in 1957, will return to the Institute's Menlo Park headquarters about June 1 to become director of the physical sciences division until Dr. Benedict's return.

School Elections:

Six Candidates in Race Promise Las Lomitas Contest

Six candidates have put their names on the ticket as candidates for two positions on the Las Lomitas School District board of trustees.

The number of candidates, none of whom are present incumbents, all filed before the deadline last Friday. The number of aspirants indicates a high level of interest in school affairs in the Las Lomitas district, equal only to the number of candidates running in the Menlo Park Elementary School District race.

The candidates are Charles W. Mauldin, Eric Heegaard, Evelyn Whitehorn, Gareth Ott, Don Hesselgrave and Robert Shinkle. Present incumbents Ben Law and Richard O'Brien are not running.

In the Portola Valley race, there will be five candidates when the May 19 election date rolls around. A single incumbent, Sophia Alway, is a candidate; Trustee Virginia Taylor has announced she will not be a candidate to succeed herself.

Others who are running are Peter F. Dawson, Dean A. Watkins, Arthur P. Currier and Joseph F. Quiter.

Ravenswood District candidates are all running unopposed; there are four positions on the board becoming vacant this year. Running will be Martin Packard, Richard Abbott, Mrs. Charlotte Roden and Joseph Violette.

In the Sequoia High School District, Mrs. Helen Kerwin, two-term veteran and a resident of Atherton, is opposed by candidates Harry Ryberg of Menlo Park and Carlisle Cheney of Redwood City.

Ryberg is also a candidate for the Menlo Park Elementary School District board of trustees.

City District Grade Schools Tell 'Open House' Plans

Open House events have been scheduled at all five schools of the Menlo Park Elementary School District for next week, as they take part in National Public Schools Week observances.

But while special attention is called to the schools only during the national week, District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld pointed out that all parents should feel familiar with them at all times.

Most involved open house events scheduled for next week will be held at Oak Knoll, Hillview and Encinal schools, where seventh and eighth grades meet. Kindergarten-through-sixth grade schools have also slated full schedules of events, however.

At Oak Knoll School, the open house has been set for April 27, with parents of kindergarten - through-sixth grade children invited to meet between 7:30 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. and seventh and eighth grade class open houses from 8:15 p.m. to 8:45 p.m.

There will be a display of students' science projects in the multi-use room.

Parents, according to Principal Dick Johnson, are invited to visit classes while they are in session during the day, and are asked to phone for advance arrangements.

Hillview School's open house will be the same evening, starting at 7:30 p.m. for classroom visits.

At 8:15 p.m. a special program will commence in the multi-purpose room. It will feature the seventh and eighth grade chorus, plus a student drama group.

Biggest event in Hillview's observance, however, will be reserved for Saturday, May 2. At that time, the school dads' club will host its seventh annual barbecue from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

AFTERNOON PROGRAM

At Encinal School, April 27 will see kindergarten and primary grade students present a folk dancing and rhythm demonstration at 1:30 p.m.

All classrooms will be open between 7 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. and, at the latter hour, fourth through eighth grade pupils will put on a folk dance and vocal music presentation at the multi-use room.

Fremont School has scheduled no special events, but all classrooms will be open for visits by parents between 7 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. April 28.

Laurel school has set an open house for the same evening, from 7:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Meanwhile, all pupils are writing invitations, asking their parents to visit them during the day.

Menlo Park Church Has Lunar Theme For Festivities

"May Day On the Moon" is the theme of Saturday, May 2, festivities scheduled for the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church of Menlo Park.

Festivities will start at noon and finish with a variety show beginning at 8 p.m. The show may also be seen Friday evening, May 1, at the same time.

Mrs. Dorothy Hawley is directing the production. A dinner will be served from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, featuring chicken, ham, roast beef or spaghetti.

In the afternoon, pony rides a rocket-launching movie, baseball pitching, a fish pond with surprise gifts, a putting green and hotdog and soft drink stands will be available.

Parking will be available at Stanford Research Institute across Ravenswood avenue from the church. The entire family is urged to attend, according to Rector J. R. Wyatt.

Committee chairmen, under the leadership of J. F. Havard, include Dick Randall, Lindley Miller, Hugh Hicks, Nell Fassett, Dorothea Hawley, Barbara Walton, George Angus, Dick Price, Tom Montgomery, Jean Perkins and Rudy Hanfield.

Pool Heater Job Awarded

Time to open bids for installing a heater at Burgess Park swimming pool arrived at 8 p.m. Tuesday night before the city council.

There was only one bidder: Landon, Inc., of Belmont. City Manager John R. Johnson said three other firms had taken out paper to bid; he did not know why they had no submitted their figures, he said.

Landon's bid was $4600. City Engineer Edwin H. Smith had estimated the job at $4500. Johnson said the city had budgeted $5000.

The bid was declared satisfactory, and Landon was awarded the job.

Women Voters At Meeting In Capital

California water resources development, state constitutional revision and state taxation and spending policies highlighted discussions at the 38th annual convention of the League of Women Voters of California, held at the Senator Hotel in Sacramento, April 20-22.

Representing the League of Women Voters of Menlo Park were its president, Mrs. Walter Baker, Mrs. William Johnston, Mrs. James Crooks and Miss Dorothy MacRae.

More than 250 delegates from local leagues in 59 California communities will together the thinking of the membership in arriving at conclusions and planning future action concerning state water policy and revision of the state constitution, following two years study by the members. They also considered the adoption of a new subject for study and action in the field of fiscal policy.

Features of the convention were the legislative banquet, Tuesday evening, at which members of the legislature and their wives were guests of the delegates.

The Menlo Park League had as its guests, State Senator Dolwig and Mrs. R. J. Dolwig and Assemblyman Britschgi and Mrs. Carl Britschgi.

A go-see trip to the legislature and committees in session was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon. Another special event was a contest among the local Leagues, judged at the convention, illustrating sections of the state constitution to go on "the little list" of sections "which never will be missed." League members have found in their study of the constitutional revision many items in the constitution which are redundant and obsolete.

1000 Attend First Open House At Woodside High School

An estimated 1000 parents and friends of Woodside High School students turned out Monday night to participate in the first annual Public Schools Week open house there.

They participated in a PTA meeting and then toured the school- viewing department displays which were coordinated to present well-rounded reviews of activities at the school.

The PTA meeting, which started at 8 p.m., featured installation of officers for the coming year.

The school's language department presented a series of playlets—one each in Latin, French and Spanish; the English department had displays of student work, players presented a scene from their forthcoming production of "The Egg and I."

Some students also presented monologues.

The home-making department presented a fashion show and served coffee throughout the evening; the industrial arts department had a display of student work; the library and math departments also had exhibits of student work.

The music department provided a background for presentation by the boys' and girls' physical education departments. These included a tumbling and folk dancing exhibition by the girls, and wrestling, tumbling and boxing exhibitions by boys.

The science department had a display of student projects; the business education department displayed some antique typewriters.

WOODSIDE residents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Selsted, 2180 Ward way, will host section three of the Mr. and Mrs. Bridge group of the Menertons on April 24 at 8 p.m.

Chicken Pox Going Around

A total of 39 cases of chicken pox were last month reported from Menlo Park to the San Mateo County Health and Welfare Department, indicating a heavy outbreak of the children's disease here.

The reported heavy outbreak was made known in the department's regular monthly morbidity report. Officials of the health department, however, caution not all cases of minor diseases are always reported.

Besides chicken pox, the city saw incidence of several other communicable diseases during March. These included two cases each of gonorrhea and measles, four cases each of mumps and syphilis, and single cases of tuberculosis and streptococcal infection.

During March, Atherton reported scattered cases of chicken pox, measles and mumps.

C. D. Barnes Head Of Sertomans

C. D. Barnes last week was elected president of the Sertoma club of Menlo Park for the coming year, at the group's regular meeting at the Stone Cellar.

He heads a slate of officers which includes Ray Collins, first vice-president; Bob Thomas, second vice-president; George Vogel, third vice-president; secretary, Wally Greig; Keith McCarthy, treasurer and Bruce Steward, sergeant-at-arms.

As We See It:

Library Week Called Attention To a Quiet Operation

Last week, patrons and friends of the Menlo Park Library wound up their observance of National Library Week, proclaimed locally by Mayor William R. Lawson at a city council meeting early this month.

Libraries are quiet places; it takes a second look, on the part of the casual observer, to find out that anything special is going on.

The Menlo Park library is no exception to this rule.

The best index of how essential a part of the community the librar yhas become is a resume of some of the circulation figures; these show that patronage has grown tremendously during the two years that the facility in civic center has become in operation.

Not only that, the civic center library's patronage has proven to be a redoubling of patronage at the old, small library which used to serve the city before 1957.

More people, say the experts, are reading more books than ever before. The trend can be expected to continue.

It is up to all of us — whether or not we're avid readers — to keep the pursuit of knowledge and entertainment through books available to all.

And this means continuous re-evaluation to determine whether or not our facilities remain adequate, in the face of increasing use by the public.

There are indications, even today, that Menlo Park's present two-year old facility won't meet all the needs of the city forever. Every once in a while a big crowd shows up for a meeting and there's no place to put the people; every once in a while, some particular book earns a waiting list out of proportion to the library's ability to return it to circulation and it's only with the utmost caution that officials will buy a second volume.

Baseball Season Preliminaries Restore Balance to the Scene

A couple of weeks ago, some 400 members and boosters of Little League baseball teams, including about 200 adults, showed up at a pre-season dinner.

The city council has never seen such a crowd.

Neither has the school board, nor any other public deliberative body that we know of.

It's true, of course, that various "protest meetings" have drawn crowds about as large, but these weren't happy grounds; they wer epeople gathered to gether by a common suspicion or a common anger.

Not so in the case of the Little League; not so, either, in the case of any of the several score managers', sponsors', team groups, and similar gatherings now being held.

This probably demonstrates something about the people of Menlo Park: They're more interested in the activities of their children and in the business of having a reasonably out-of-doors good time than they are in petitions, annexations, civic activities per se, and the like.

In a few months, after school is out, it'll be noted that there are more lads working in several baseball leagues than there are active PTA workers during the school year. This is an indication of something, too.

So let's not get our perspective out of adjustment.

Judging by the headlines, what the various public deliberative bodies do ought to be considered important, but judging by public response, baseball is really the hidden prime mover of the town.

Sonic Booms Are Necessary, But Let's Point 'em Elsewhere

People of the Paleolithic Age no doubt complained bitterly about the constant twanging of bow strings as primitive armorers invented the first projectile weapon of war outside the flung stone.

And people of the Middle Ages likewise probably complained bitterly as the first iron-clad nights clanked noisely about.

So now we have the sonic boom.

Apparently it's a necessary adjunct of jet warfare. There seems little point in having fast aircraft if we don't let them go fast. And when jet fighter planes go fast, they're liable to send sonic booms happily rattling picture windows for miles.

There does seem to be a point, however, in restricting sonic-boom speeds to the wilds of the open sea or Los Angeles County. Particularly since at least two of last week's booms came from planes based in Southern California.

The Navy has an area at sea off the Monterey County coastline where its planes can boom until the ocean is afroth.

We see little need for three sonic booms a week in this area. It's true that pilots don't know when they've caused a boom. It's equally true they know under what conditions a boom could be created. From this position, away from the picture window with a shimmy, it seems feasible to limit pilots to playing Thor out at sea.

Besides, as taxpayers we object to having to pay

Menlo Park may be in the far west but it wasn't always the place where "the deer and the antelope play."

During prehistoric times, according to a geology book recently come into hand, the area was probably inhabited by Hipparion (little woolly horses), the small hyenoid dog "osteoborus," the antelocaprid "tetrameryx," and bison and sabre-toothed cats.

That's not all, says the geology book:

"Fossils of the late Pleistocene age are likely to be encountered almost anywhere . . . mammoth teeth and part of a bison jaw have been dredged from San Francisco Bay."

Last year, fundraisers at Menlo-Atherton High School had a sure thing; they'd put on a carrot sale.

Carrot sticks sold like hot cakes for two of three fund drives.

This year, the same gambit was tried again, but it didn't work. Nobody, it seems, wanted to eat carrot sticks anymore.

Three little kids who wanted to see the bright lights and glitter of a beer hall were unceremoniously ejected from the Oasis at 241 El Camino Real Sunday afternoon.

The trio, estimated to be between eight and 10 years of age, were spotted by bartender Cliff Denby. They were sitting in a back booth, smoking, and were detected when they stuck their heads out for a look at television.

Denby has no idea how they got in; he said he just looked up from his work and — there they were.

And he also commented that if they were his kids . . . well . . .

Members of Stanford's Muir and Burbank House Bridge teams early this week concluded a one-week marathan bridge game.

Probably a major part of the strategy of both teams could have been found out by spies at the spas between Menlo Park and Atherton because players, working through the night in shifts, found it convenient to adjourn to the nearest taverns outside the university's mile-and-a-half limit whenever they got a chance.

An expert this week gave some advice on how to heckle a baseball umpire.

The expert, Recorder Sports Editor Rick Talley, says he knows the techniques work, because he's served as an umpire himself.

First, he says, the heckler should choose a game at which the attendance can be expected to be relatively small ,such as a Little League or high school game. This way, the umpire can tell where the voice is coming from and can pay attention to it for an entire game.

Next, the heckled should choose a good seat. This allows him to be an authoritative viewer because, with a little luck, he can see mistakes as well as the umpire can.

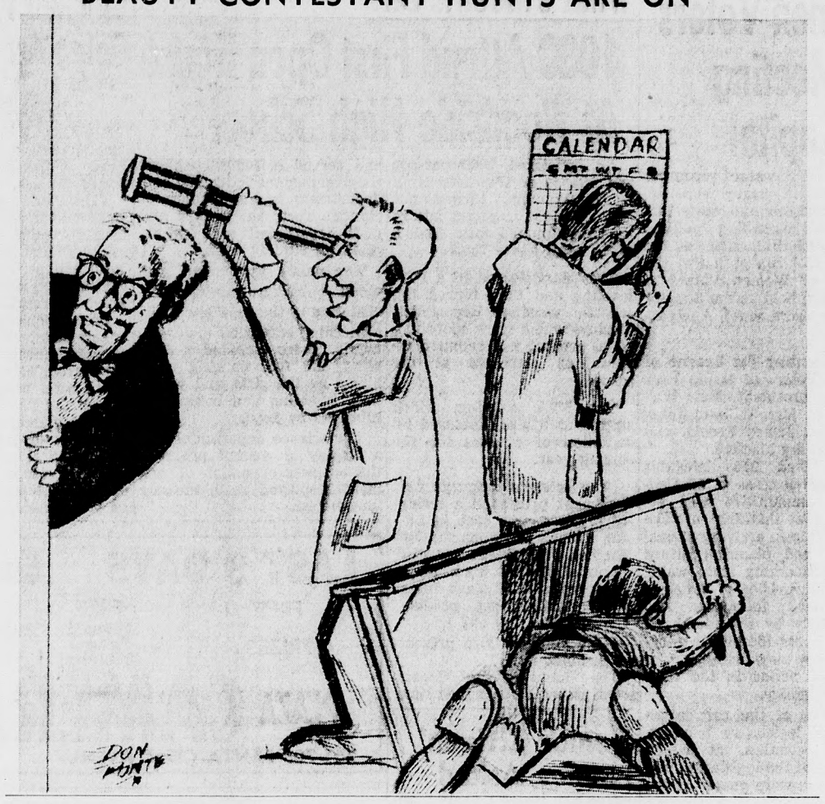

It's best, says Talley, for the heckler to remain silent until he sees the umpire make a bad call. A member of the audience who just complains is really only a noisemaker, and most umpires can ignore him, but the one who doesn't start yelling until he sees something being done wrong immediately graduates to the rank of Expert Observer.

Once the umpire has been legitimately hooked, classic references to his intelligence, eyesight and judgment are allowable. They should be in good taste and consist of words that make nobody blush but which are well understood by all.

Snch words as "blind" and "stupid" sound much better ringing out across the greenward than words like "bums," which is slang anyhow.

A heckler, says Talley, should have intelligence and originality, and should mix up his words and phrases. This

BEAUTY CONTESTANT HUNTS ARE ON

Municipal Report:

Parkinson's Law May Apply To City—but Maybe Not

These days, City Manager John R. Johnson is a serious student of Parkinson's law.

The propounder of this bit wisdom, Dr. Cyril N. Parkinson, an Englishman and scholar, came to a couple of conclusions, based on observations.

1. No managerial complex in business or government ever reduces itself in size;

2. Most managerial groups double their sizes every few years.

Johnson, who definitely heads a management team, has been looking over the past history of Menlo Park, to see if this is so. And further, he says, city administrators all over the place are doing the same thing and wondering if they're really slaves of a formula, or honest-to-goodness executives who do and do their best to keep costs down, but who are forced by ever-growing complexities to hire more people.

There's one phase of Parkinson's Law that can't be checked in Menlo Park.

Basing his finding on what happened in the British Admiralty after World War II and to the British department of Colonial Affairs after India was granted its independence, Parkinson concluded that managerial complexes can't reduce their sizes even when the job they have to do is reduced.

In Menlo Park, the work load hasn't been reduced, at least as far as scope of the job has been concerned. But equally certain, the managerial complex has grown.

Only a few years ago, the city's administrative group consisted of the city manager; his assistant, who was Johnson at the time, and six department heads.

Since those high and far-off times there have been added an engineering assistant, a city planner, an administrative assistant, a librarian.

Along with these go a requisite number of secretaries, desks, telephones, functions and so forth.

Of course, the city's population has doubled while all this is going on, so nobody really has any cause to complain.

The Menlo Park School District, meanwhile, has been performing pretty much in accordance with Parkinson's Law, too —except that its job has grown considerably over the years, also.

The Central School offices used to house the superintendent and, when classes were still in session there, a teaching vice principal.

About 1952 Central's classes closed and since then the district has increased its executive staff by the addition of a business manager and curriculum consultant, plus a librarian and several toilers in the nether regions of the building.

The unpaid trusteees of the district haven't kept their ranks to a minimum, either; since 1950, board membership has been increased from three to five.

While all this is going on, Atherton must be recognized as a special case. It's got a building inspector now where the Town Clerk used to do the job 10 years ago, but aside from that—on the surface, anyhow—it remains the same except when growing population demands an addition to the police force.

The bureaucrats are not altogether to blame for Parkinson's Law, and a demonstration of this may soon be given in Atherton itself. There's a move afoot to get the city to activate some sort of a recreation department and this would inevitably result in the creation of another managerial position.

And before levelling criticism at governing bodies for adhering too strictly to Parkinson's bit of inspired observation, it might be well to have a look at a few of the private businesses with which we're acquainted.

Are their management complexes getting smaller, or even staying the same size?

Not likely.

This column two weeks ago predicted a 10 per cent "automatic no" vote in the bond issue elections of April 14.

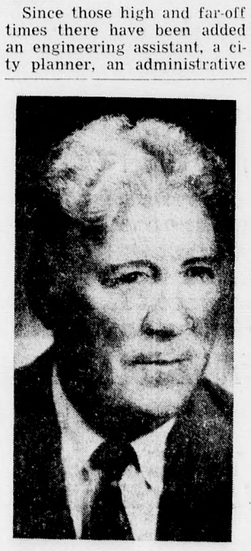

The police station bond issue results, 3239 for to 620 against, would seem to knock the word, "automatics," into a cocked hat.

It doesn't.

The extenuating circumstance is that the police department's needs were so patently obvious that nobody could ignore them; anybody who bothers to tour the present gendarmerie can figure this out.

Meanwhile, the entirely blameless Community Activities Building project got dumped, because 1387 people voted no as opposed to 2487 voting yes.

This kind of a popular majority—but less than the required two-thirds—considered with the fact that there was no organized opposition, indicates that there are a lot of people in town who'll vote "no" on

Walter the weathermouse, once again clad in the metal clothing of a medieval cavalier, clanked into the office and handed in his report.

"Yep," said our correspondent. "I am taking a new course. This time, I am studying drama and play-acting."

"We always knew you were some sort of a ham," we rejoined.

"True," said Walter. "And so there'll be no mistake about it, I've donned a suit of armour."

County Comment:

East Palo Alto Woes Bring Comments from County Heads

By FLOYD M. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

County Manager E. R. Stallings took time out from his budget studies and conferences recently to make a speech in East Palo Alto regarding some of the problems residents of that area are experiencing.

One of the most glaring, as everyone knows, is the lack of 'round-the-clock police protection and the board of supervisors has set this issue for a public vote in June.

The county manager was throwing out some bait to those at the meeting, strongly urging either incorporation or annexation to one of the adjoining cities, Menlo Park or Palo Alto. Supporters of such a move are studying facts and figures to be presented later.

Stallings stressed first, however, whether either city would accept the area within its boundaries. There was implication in this statement that the East Palo Altans might have clear sailing if they want to join with Palo Alto although such a plan would take years to accomplish.

Stallings did, at the same time, urge strong support for approval of the proposed special police district. He pointed out that the several special districts in that southern county area had filled their purpose but that residents must turn to the matter of providing their own services, which can be accomplished by incorporation or annexation.

With either move, the special districts would immediately be dissolved, the services to be taken over by the home government selected by the vot ers.

The manager's speech was met with mixed feelings, naturally. The area seems to be split into many factions. Some want to join Palo Alto, others Menlo Park and another large group wants to keep the section as is and ignore the need of special services. What the outcome will be is hard to guess.

We see one fault to find with the proposal to annex with Palo Alto. This would bring up other boundaries which the college city tried to reach recently and was turned down in the courts. The PA city council just might decide that it would be "willing" to take East Palo Alto if it could grab off some of the lush residential property west of Menlo Park which it has been eyeing with two "money-eyes."

No, we'll keep East Palo Alto and help them solve their difficulties rather than allow the city below county line to step into our last really fine residential acreages.

Speaking of this year's record preliminary budget, Stallings says that he is meeting with good cooperation of departmental heads. He would not estimate what cuts had been made to date, but it seems safe to say that some of the new requested positions (200 of them) will be slashed and some other new services might be curtailed.

One bureau we hope gets the paring knife in a deep way is the one-year-old mental health section which in its second budget is doubling its request, getting close to the million dollar mark in its infancy. If that should continue, think of what it will be within a few years.

One of the hardest things for some homeowners near the county's civic center to understand is why their properties are being grabbed and county has announced it will sell the old county jail property.

When the board of supervisors decided it wanted another block north of the new Hall of Justice for an administration building and for parking it notified each property owner and gave him the right to negotiate a sale price and then rent the homes until they were needed or give the county an option at an agreed price and remain until the homes must be removed

Some who have not settled on a price are crying big tears that they are being cheated, that the lands are much more valuable for commerical use than the county is willing to pay and they can't understand how the county can force them out and then turn around and rent the homes.

Well, it seems it is just good business from the local government standpoint. The land to the north is not nearly as valuable as the old jail property regardless of what owners may think.

As far as the people thinking they are being cheated they can compare other sales in the area and use those figures in negotiations or in the courts. To charge that the courts are favoring the county dollar-wise is pretty ridiculous.

We might be in some agreement with sentiment that the county is spreading too far too fast. Land is valuable in the center of town and the building programs should look more to the higher structures than those recently completed. The new administration offices are to be built in a pyramid, according to present plans, with the top "penthouse" upon the fifth floor. Just happened to think that the lovely view perch might make a good "Top of the Dome" property fitted with cocktail lounge open to the public.

Of course we wouldn't deny the county workers their noontime martini or a dash of the suake-bite remedy after a busy day at the desk. Come to think of it, we're going to put in our

Menlo Park Said to Be 'Untidy'

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

April 27, 1934:

Beginning Monday and continuing to the following Saturday, the city of Menlo Park will enjoy the privileges of having a "Clean-up Week" during which the residents of the city are urged to clean up their property, removing all grass, rubbish and other waste material that makes the city in general and property in particular look untidy.

According to Councilman Irving Dunn, all of this rubbish and waste material should be placed in containers of some sort and neatly piled in the parking strip on the side of the street, and it will be hauled away free of charge to the owner.

The city council will pass a resolution at its meeting this evening, sponsoring the Clean-up Weew, and property owners should take notice that during the first three days only will the rubbish, etc., be hauled away free. After that time there will be a charge. Now is the time to get the work done at the least possible cost. If fo rany reason property owners or others cannot do the work themselves the city hall or fire department may be called and either will send a man out to do the work at low cost. The unemployed will be given this work.

Heart Group Drops Out Of United Crusade

The San Mateo County Heart Association has just voted to reaffirm its policy of an independent heart fund campaign, Dr. Leo S. Bell of San Mateo, president of the local heart association, announced this week. The association will no longer participate as a member agency of the United Fund of San Mateo County after the present 1959 allocation agreement expires.

In making the announcement, Dr. Bell said that "after careful and thoughtful deliberation, our board of directors concluded that an independent heart fund, conducted annually, would be the best way for us to finance the heart program for research, public and professional education, and community services."

"Because we are receiving only 48 per cent of our total funds from the United Fund, our board of directors considered whether the balance of funds could be adequately raised within the supplemental fund-raising policies of the United Fund and not voilate the spirit and intent of the United Crusade campaign."

Encinal PTA Plans Summer Rec Program

A summer recreation program for children in the preschool through the eighth grade age bracket will be held for ten weeks, from June 15 through August 22, at the Encinal School in Atherton.

The program will be sponsored by the Encinal PTA. Mrs. J. R. Beckett, PTA president, has announced that school children will bring home application forms Monday, April 27.

Last summer the PTA inaugurated a recreation program to fill the needs of local youngsters. Encinal's Atherton location has prevented its inclusion in recreation activities such as those conducted at other Menlo Park Elementary School District schools by the Menlo Park Recreation District.

Mrs. Shirley Leick, fifth grade teacher at Oak Knoll School, will be in charge of crafts. She will teach water color, clay, looming, copper enamel, leather work, puppetry, and finger painting.

Sports, tumbling, and folk dancing will be provided. Mrs. Foster Alexander, one of the group mothers, will teach folk dancing. She is a Stanford graduate with a degree in recreation.

Elmo Hayden, Menlo Park camera dealer, will teach photography to children in the fifth through the eighth grades. A nature study course also will be held once a week for children in grades one through five.

The cost of enrollment will be $8 per child or $16 per family for all except those in the pre-school group.

Pre-schoolers will pay $10. The nursery school will be held four days a week with four-year-olds going from 10 to 12 noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and five-year-olds at the same time on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Classes for older children will be held from 10 to 4 Mondays through Fridays and the youngsters may attend part or all of the program, as they choose.

Auto Accident Frequency May Be Dropping, Insurors Told

"Mental image of a new sign is already replacing the traditional red and white stop sign as California motorists approach arterial intersections. The mental sign reads 'STOP.' Don't lose insurance points and have to pay higher rates'."

Speaking to the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce Monday an insurance official said the new Safe Driver Insurance Plan announced recently by some 200 companies has already begun to encourage more cautious driving, according to voluminousp comments in letters to companies, editors and personal observations og insurance buyers to their agents.

Myles W. Smith, Pacific Coast Public Relations Director for the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, said that safety and law enforcement officials all over the nation have hailed this new approach to auto insurance rate-making as a significant aid to safety.

Insurance commissioners from other states are requesting such a plan for their states.

"The two principal rating organizations that authored the plan," Mr. Smith said, "are very happy that the plan will remind all of us to obey the laws, but it is not the function of insurance to police society in that way. Nobody elected us to that job. We want not part of it. Crime and punishment is the function of regularly constituted authorities.

"Our responsibility was to find a way to meet the growing demand so often expressed in the press and elsewhere, that the poorer drivers whose actions cost all the rate-payers so much money, should pay a larger share of those costs. And that the safe drivers should pay a lesser share.

Many Solutions to Need For Junior College Here

Five alternative solutions to Sequoia Union High School District's junior college needs have been proposed by the State Department of Education's Bureau of School District Organization.

In a preliminary report issued this month, the Bureau listed the alternatives as:

1. Form a new junior college district with the same boundaries as Sequoia Union High School District.

2. Form a new district consisting of both Sequoia and Pescadera High School Districts.

3. Annex to Foothill Junior College District in Santa Clara county.

4. Annex to San Mateo Junior College District.

5. Combine with the rest of San Mateo County to form a junior college district covering the entire county.

A junior college district in Sequoia Union High School District would have an average daily attendance of 3849 in 10 years, the state bureau estimated in its report.

If a junior college district was formed this year, it would open with about 2752 average daily attendance, said the bureau.

The attendance estimates are computed from projections of student enrollment in the 11th and 12th grades in Sequoia District high schools. According to its figures the bureau expects slightly more than half the 11th and 12 graders in any given year to go on into a junior college.

The bureau said enough students are available to make any of the five solutions work.

However, the bureau said the major issue in choosing a method for obtaining a junior college should be decided on the basis of which would provide sounder planning and location of school plants.

"For instance," said the report, "with the existing San Mateo Junior College facilities as a starting base, can a county wide district provide additional facilities and expanded program better than two separate districts? This question probably cannot be answered directly from statistical data."

The bureau said there appears to be little financial advantage to one solution over another when based on assessed valuation per student.

Assessed valuation in the Sequoia District in the 1958-59 fiscal year was $259,081,126, the bureau said. In the 1966-67 fiscal year will be $407,976,542, the bureau estimated. Approximate rates of increase are estimated under any of the five proposals, said the bureau.

WHO makes the financial weather?

Millions of investors own the stocks of America's corporations that are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Many investors, many ideas about stock prices at any moment. On this auction market for securities, competition between sellers to sell, between buyers to buy, results in a consensus of individual price opinions, determines the financial weather: whether fair and higher—whether cloudy and lower.

Tomorrow's financial weather cannot be known today. We don't know whether prices will be higher or lower. But we do have a lot of information to help you adapt the "weather" to your investment needs. It's yours for the asking. There's no obligation.

'School Month' Being Noted At Las Lomitas

Parents and patrons of the Las Lomitas School District currently are observing Public School Month—an extension of Public Schools week designed to be conducted all through April.

Among events thus far held have been a general meeting of the Las Lomitas PTA, held April 9; a Science Fair and the annual spring music concert presented by student musicians.

Parents who want to see classroom teaching in action, however, have been urged to visit the school either before or after the month-long observance, since classes are disrupted for special projects and for conferences.

Parent-Teacher conferences have been scheduled for the period from April 20 to May 1; meanwhile, pupils are making preparations for the annual PTA carnival at Las Lomitas school which is to be held May 3.

Still on top as a formal program during the month is a presentation of Family Life education motion pictures, to be presented Friday, April 24, at the Las Lomitas Kindergarten.

Pictures to be shown are titled "Human Beginning" and "Human Growth," produced by the University of Oregon. The films are designed to help children of kindergarten and primary grade age understand and prepare for the coming of a new baby into the family. The showing will start at 7:30 p.m.

Troop 102 Scouts Hold 'Overnight'

Members of Boy Scout Troop 102 of Menlo Park camped at Big Basin recently, using the overnight as an occasion for preparing to participate in the annual Live Oak District Camporee to be held at Huddart Park next month.

Under the leadership of Scoutmaster Robert Stickney, 28 members of the unit participated in activities which included a five-mile hike, plus other events.

The overnight was enlivened, said a spokesman, by the aggressive and lively activities of the raccoons, who kept things interesting during the night hours.

2 New Candidates Announce They're in Menlo School Race

Two late entries in the Menlo Park Elementary School District trustee race last week brought to six the total number of candidates running for two positions on the board.

William J. Platt, 151 Laurel avenue in Atherton, is the only incumbent remaining in the race; Mrs. Mildred (Pat) Milward of 1820 Oakdell drive and William P. Feiten, 96 Edge road, are the newest candidates.

Previously announced candidates in the race are William T. Joyce, Dr. Glen Haydon and Harry Ryberg.

Mrs. Milward, outgoing president of the Oak Knoll School PTA and one of the leaders in the recent Citizens for Education drive which campaigned successfully for passage of the school district March 31 bond issue, has been active in school activities and a member of the Oak Knoll PTA executive board for the past five years.

She said that fellow bond drive workers had urged her candidacy, and promised an active campaign.

In consistent attendance at school board meetings for the past two years, she has served on several citizens advisory panels as well.

Feiten, who is 50 and who is manager of economic controls for United Air Lines at San Francisco, said he believes in reappraisals of the arministrative structure of the school system on both the state and local levels, and that curriculum offerings should also be reviewed.

He cited current studies initiated by Governor Edmund G. Brown and Dr. Roy Simpson, superintendent of public instruction, which aim at such reviews and said he felt similar ones should be made here.

OBSERVER

Mrs. Milward, the mother of three children, said that her past activity as a close observer of school board activities, as well as close association with other parents in the district, would make it possible for her to assume an active part in trustee affairs with a minimum of indoctrination.

In addition she pointed out that with the retirement of Mrs. Mary Klein, there will be no women members of the board unless she is elected.

A native of Stockton, she has made her home here since 1952. She is a member of the Menlo Park Presbtyerian Church, and is active in Girl Scout leadership as well as parent-school activities.

She is a graduate of the University of California.

Feiten received his AB in money and banking at Brown University in 1931 and has done graduate work in statistics and marketing at the University of Chicago.

He has been with United Air Lines since 1933 and is currently responsible for United's cost control program at its San Francisco base, as well as industrial engineering, maintenance regulations, and coordination of the air line's turbine aircraft program, concerned with company-wide plans.

He has two children, one now a student at San Francisco State College and the second at San Jose State.

Students Elect Officers At High School

The Menlo-Atherton student body went to the polls again last Thursday to vote for next year's commissioners. There was only one candidate each for the posts of Welfare, Administration, and Boys' Athletics. They were Frankie Lee, Hugh Smith, and Rick Wright, respectively.

Joey Thorpe defeated Sue Larson, Sue Fehring, and Sheri Smith in the race for Social Commissioner. Janna Osmond was victorious over Gayle Gowdy, and Sandi Hammerman for the position of School-Spirit Commissioner. The Cultural Commissioner's post was also highly contested. Bob Macri broke the tradition of the last few years in winning over Lynne Caffar, Bobbie Jean Post and Sue McClenahan.

Two candidates ran for each of the following posts: Girls' Athletics, Publicity, Publications, and Finance. Jeanne Treat triumphed over Nancy Briggs to become the Girls' Athletic Commissioner. Nick Cann "canned" Paul Du Pont for the Publicity chairmanship. Nancy Hawkins won the post of Publicity Commissioner over Mary Ryan.

Menlo College Student Project

Members of the Alii Service club at Menlo College have decided to provide social and recreational activities for patients at the Menlo Park Veterans' hospital, as their community service project for the year.

Members of the club have been working at the Casa Mateo Inn in San Mateo; the proceeds from this work are devoted to activities at the Haven, recreation center for patients at the Hospital grounds.

In addition, members of the club will work at the facility here on Sunday afternoons.

Don Powell, president of Alii, said this week that members of the club participate in clean-up campaigns, the showing of weekly motion pictures and the conduct of dances at the college, to teach each student at the school the importance of community service.

Nativity School Has Spelldown

Winners of the annual spelling contest at Nativity School are scheduled to journey to Serra High School in San Mateo today, to compete in area-wide competition.

Stanley Hergott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hergott of 2316 Cooley avenue in East Palo Alto, was local winner and Virginia Basford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Basford of 124 Gardenia way, East Palo Alto, was the runner-up.

According to Sister Mary Philippa, principal at Nativity School, the contest was closely followed by all students. Winners of today's contest will compete with winners from county public schools at a contest scheduled for Hoover School in Redwood City on May 7.

State winners will later emerge from a contest in San Francisco later in May, and a national winner will be named after a contest in Washington in June.

MP Mentor Plans New Summer Camp

Their zeal for working with children has led a pair of Menlo Park educators to open a "gold-diggin's" camp for youngsters in California's fabulous Mother Lode country.

Lew Knights, physical education consultant for the Menlo Park Elementary School District, and John L. Carter, guidance counselor with the District, July 1 will open Spanish Creek Camp in the heart of Plumas National Forest.

The camp, six miles from Quincy in the Mother Lode, is on a creek where boys and girls from 9 to 12 will be able to pan flecks of gold. "If the children are lucky, they will be able to take home a little gold dust in jars," said Knights.

Knights, who has been with the Menlo Park District for 15 years, is the camp's general director. Carter, with 30 years' experience, is associate director.

Two other Menlo Park educators will serve on the camp's executive staff. Kenneth Barnes, vice principal at Hillview School, will serve as boys' director. Ennio Ciolli, principal of Laurel School, will be director of nature study and science. Barnes' wife, Pat, former principal of an elementary school in Newark, will be girls' director.

"It's going to be something different in summer camps," said Knights. "We want to avoid the usual camp routine as far as possible and give the children some time to themselves. We also plan to teach basic camping skills, including cooking, making camp, and survival in a wilderness."

The youngsters will also get instruction in casting, "fish finding" and pack trips, said Knights. Next year, he added, the program will be expanded to include more txtensive exploration of primitive areas.

"Our aim is to steer clear of the usual run of summer camp life, where every minute of the children's time is scheduled for organized activities," said Knights.

"After all these years of working with children we've decided you can regiment them too far. We hope to teach them some independence," Knights said.

Spanish Creek Camp's pine-studded 50-acre site is at the 4000-foot level in the Sierras, said Knights.

"And we haven't found any poison oak, yet," he added.

Lake Almanor is near enough to be utilized for water skiing, obating, swimming and exploration. Knights said the Mount Lassen area will be visited for winter-type sports.

"The camp has the advantage of being in the wilds and still retaining some of the comforts of home," said Knights. He said cabins, tents, a main lodge with kitchen, showers, are provided.

Members of the school's parent board of directors kicked off the drive with contributions totalling $1,800. Returns are currently coming in from the second phase of the campaign, an appeal to present parents in the school. Additional letters have now gone out to more than a 1000 past parents, alumni and other friends of the school.

Pointing out that operation of the school from tuition fees alone is impossible if fees are not to be prohibitive, Houghteling explained that funds raised will allow the school to continue its extensive scholarship program, and also to raise staff salaries to a level more in line with the area pattern.

The 34-year-old school was established by a group of parents with very much the same aims still held by staff and parents today, that of developing the individual personality of each student while emphasizing so far as education can, the role of the individual in society.

Houghteling is assisted on the Finance Committee by Mrs. Josephine Duveneck of Los Altos Hills, one of the cofounders of the school; Frederic Achelis, Carl Landman and John P. Shepard of Menlo Park, Kermit Jeffrey and William Swanberg of Atherton, Elliott Farnsworth of Palo Alto and Mr. and Mrs. Werner Warmbrunn of Woodside.

Alan Strain of Portola Valley is the present director of the school, and Gerald Marcus of Menlo Park is chairman of the parent board of directors.

State Names Five from Area For Scholarships

Three Atherton students and two Menlo Park students, all in area high schools, have been named by the State Scholarship commission as recipients of state scholarships for the 1959-60 year.

Each scholarship is to be used for payment of tuition and fees up to a maximum of $600 per year.

The Atherton residents who are recipients include Michael Abbott Fallon, 96 Lane place, a student at Menlo-Atherton; Joseph L. Pelay Jr., a student at Bellarmine and William Henry Warren, 91 Amherst avenue, a student at Palo Alto high school.

Menlo Park residents who have received the awards are David R. Parker, 4115 Fair Oaks avenue, a student at Sequoia and Suzanne M. White, at Menlo-Atherton.

District Track Meet Saturday Night

Bears Impressive in Trials, 3-Year Supremacy Threatened

For the past three years, Menlo-Atherton High School's track squads have dominated the Sequoia District cinder championships.

Only last year did the Bruins lose the Class C meet, while the varsity and Class B teams have taken top laurels three years in a row.

This Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. the 1959 edition of the District Track meet will begin — but whether M-A maintains its past superiority is another question.

Field events will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. Saturday on Sequoia's track. Running events are to begin at 8 p.m.

Carlmont won the 1959 dual meet championship, clinching the title last weekend by whipping M-A, 72⅓ to 40⅔.

In Tuesday's district trials at Sequoia, however, coach Sam Lugonja's varsity Bears made a magnificent showing. Trials were held for the first time this year since five teams will be entered Saturday night, including new schools Ravenswood and Woodside.

M-A's speed-burners placed four of the six entrants in both the 100 and 220 dashes Tuesday, placed three more in the 180-yard low hurdles, and two each in the 120-yard highs and the 440.

Four district records were broken Tuesday, one of them a 10-flat 100-yard dash by Sequoia's Johnny Miller. Carlmont's Stevens and four Bears, Jon Peck, John Finegold, Willie Waller and Dick Burns, will compete against Miller Saturday night in the century dash.

Miller also eclipsed a standing mark in the 220, with a 22.3 clocking. Saturday evening he'll be racing against Jim Cheatham, Stu Hawley, Jon Peck and Willie Waller — all of Menlo-Atherton.

Woodside's Henry McGuire headed a strong Class B showing by Joe Greggans' squad by setting a new 330 record (36.6). Lefty Jarrett of Ravenswood set the fourth meet mark with a 13.8 120-yard low hurdle time.

Sequoia captured the Class B dual meet title this year, but Saturday's meet shapes up as a real slam-bang affair. Both Ravenswood and Woodside, although lacking depth, are expected to make strong showings.

Menlo-Atherton, with Lafayette Hayes and Don Conley aiming for places in the 330 and 120 low hurdles, is also a contender.

In Class C, Ravenswood could step in and steal the meet, headed by speedy Mike Phelan. Menlo-Atherton, with a strong running contingent of Merta, Mudd, Tenny and Rundel, is a contender.

Admission for the events Saturday night is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. Tickets are to be sold at Sequoia District schools this week.

Athletes will receive individual medals for the first three places and ribbons may be given to fourth and fifth place finishers.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning team in each division and a trophy will go to one outstanding performer of the evening.

Bob Kennedy of Menlo-Atherton won the outstanding performance nod last year.

Tuesday's trials saw John Finegold win his heat of the 100-yard dash (10.3), Stu Hawley win his 440 heat (52.0), Dick Burns (20.9), and John Peck (23.0) win low hurdle heats. Willie Waller placed in three events, as did Jon Peck.

Menlo-Atherton's downfall in dual meet competition, it was generally conceded, was in the field events. Coach Sam Lagonja is hoping the points are more evenly distributed in these events Saturday, however, and also hoping for a flat-race sweep from his aces.

Woodside's Larry Mueller, only a freshman, turned in an 8-flat 75-yard dash in the Class B competition to win his heat Tuesday. Teammate Henry McGuire won the other heat with the same time.

McGuire and Layfayette Hayes of M-A won 330 heats, with Henry setting the new record.

In dual meet windups last Friday, Ravenswood made a clean sweep of things over Woodside. The varsity won, 60-48, Class Bs won 58-55, and Class Cs won 57-15.

In addition to Menlo-Athertons' loss in varsity competition, the Bears won the Class B dual meet with Carlmont, 65-47. The Bruins Cs nipped the little Scots, 39-38.

Dick Burns turned in a varsity clocking of :09.9 in the 100-yard dash against Carlmont, but was aided by a strong wind.

Bear Nine Drops Pair, Plays Cougars For Cellar

Menlo-Atherton's Bears have proved in past years that the South Peninsula Athletic League's baseball race is not decided until the final out .

But it doesn't look as if the Bears are going to even be in the running by season's end this year.

Coach Frank Bettencourt's nine took its 10th loss of the year Tuesday against five wins, losing to Palo Alto at Flood Park, 8-6.

Coupled with last Friday's 8-2 loss at Sequoia, the Tuesday defeat tumbled the Bruins down deeper into fourth place in the SPAL race, with the second round already one game old.

The Bears (1-4) meet Cubberley (0-4) at Flood Park Friday in an effort to remain out of the league's cellar.

Sequoia moved one step closer to an undisputed title Tuesday with a 4-2 win over Carlmont. The Cherokees (5-0) can just about wrap up the race with another win tomorrow. Carlmont and Palo Alto are knotted in second and third positions with 3-2 marks.

In Menlo-Atherton's loss Tuesday, Vikings' Rich Malloch and Bob Talbott spearheaded a 12-hit attack with towering home runs over Flood Park's distant fence.

Malloch's two-run smash, high over the center field barrier, was the crowning blow against M-A pitcher Larry Krenzin in the third inning. He was relieved by Al Pryal, inheriting a 5-0 deficit.

Menlo - Atherton bounced back in their third stanza to score five runs and tie the game—but the home run hitting moments were not finished.

Bob Talbott whipped a liner over the left field fence in the fourth with a man aboard, giving the Vikes a 7-5 lead. M-A tallied once in the fourth but Paly iced the game with a solo tally in the sixth on a double by Talbott.

Little Kent Hooper, after being out of the lineup for over a month with an arm injury, led the Bear hitting attack with two singles and a pair of RBIs. Dave Lang also chipped in a pair of singles. Lynn Larson delivered the only Bear extra-base hit, a two-bagger in the eventful third.

Junk-balling Phil McCowan went the route for Paly, gaining his second win over M-A this season. Al Pryal was the loser, going the final five innings.

8-2, DURELLI

M-A's hopes of upsetting Sequoia last Friday in Redwood City were short-lived also, with the Tribesmen scoring twice in the first off pitcher Dave Lang—and coasting to an 8-2 win behind the strong pumping arm of Joe Durelli.

Lang homered off Durelli in the fourth, making the score 2-1, but Sequoia's sophomore Rich Koeper belted a two-run homer in the bottom of the same inning to give the winners a 5-1 lead. Koeper's blast came off reliever Larry Krenzin.

Krenzin had control trouble, walking 10 batters before giving way to M-A's third hurler of the afternoon, Al Pryal, in the sixth.

Durelli allowed only five hits in gaining his second win of the year over M-A. Cliff Scott and Dave Lang had two each.

Oaks Nip SJSC Frosh, 5-3, Face Monterey Twin Bill

Coach Bob Wuesthoff's Menlo College baseball team faces its third and fourth games of the week Saturday in a doubleheader at Monterey Peninsula College.

The Oaks rapped San Jose States' Frosh 5-3 Monday and were scheduled to meet Moffett Field Wednesday, Saturday's twin bill will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Menlo bounced back into the thick of the Coast Conference diamond race last Friday by upsetting Hartnell at Salinas, 11-2. Hartnell had drubbed Menlo at Atherton only a few days earlier, 22-6. Friday's win gave Menlo a 2-2 CC record.

Bob Kuhta and Neill Parkin each banged three hits in the Hartnell win, with Bill Landes, sophomore righthander, pitching the distance and allowing seven hits.

Against San Jose's Frosh, recently-elected captain Gary Geagan delivered two hits and a pair of important RBIs. Gary Davis went the distance on the mound, allowing seven base knocks.

Monday's win gave the Oaks a 9-4 season record.

Bob Ayers Drops Basketball Coaching, Loftus Moves Up

M-A Mentor Led Bears to 253 Cage Wins in 8 Years

Bob Ayers, popular athletic director and head basketball coach at Menlo-Atherton High School, will retire from varsity basketball coaching duties, it was announced this week by M-A Principal Nicholas Nugent.

He will be replaced next season by Bill Loftus, current B, C, and D basketball coach at M-A. Loftus will take over the Bear varsity and remain head coach of the lightweight Cs and Ds.

Replacing Loftus as Class B cage mentor will be first-year coach Bob Gaughran, who also coaches swimming and water polo for M-A.

Ayers, who has led M-A cage teams to 253 victories against only 135 losses in the past eight years, will relinquish his coaching position in order to pursue further graduate studies.

The likeable 42-year-old athletic director plans to take night classes at Stanford next year to add units aoward his Administrative Credential in Education.

Ayers took charge of all four divisions of basketball when Menlo-Atherton opened in 1951. Prior to that he had coached five years at Sequoia High School, coaching frosh-soph football, wrestling, water polo and track, winning PAL championships in the latter

Bob ranks as one of Sequoia High School's all-time great high school basketball stars, winning three letters and receiving All - League honors three years. He also lettered three years in track and played baseball.

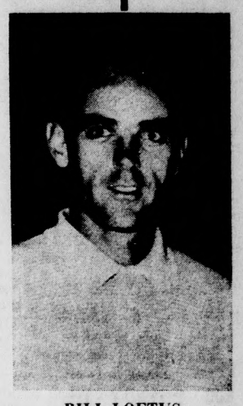

He lettered three years in basketball at Santa Clara before serving with the Navy in the South Pacific and North Atlantic from 1942-46.

He completed graduate work at Stanford University after World War II.

Ayers coached all four cage teams at M-A until Loftus took over the lightweights in 1955. In 1956 Loftus also began coaching the Bs, while Ayers remained varsity coach for the entire eight-year period.

Menlo - Atherton's varsity teams chalked up a 104-69 record under Ayers' tutelage. The varsity tied fo rthe League championship in 1957 but lost a playoff to Lincoln of San Jose.

The 1957-58 Bear squad posted a 19-6 season mark but finished second again to Lincoln.

Ayers captured the Class D league title in 1953 and 1954, finishing second in 1955. His Class C quintet won the title in 1954 and his Bs won the crown in 1955.

Ayers was promoted to head of the boys' physical education department at M-A in 1954 when Al Terremere joined the district administration.

Bob was married in 1942 and lives with his wife, Esther, and children, Mike, 12, Dana, 10, and Teresa, 7, in Redwood City.

Loftus Teams Liked To Win

Menlo - Atherton's varsity cage coach of the future, Bill Loftus, brings with him an impressive background of winning basketball.

Bill was a member of the University of San Francisco's NIT champions of 1948. A former Bellarmine prep, Bill lettered two years each in baseball and basketball and captained the cage squad his senior year, 1945.

At Menlo-Atherton, Loftus-coached teams have won 152 games while losing 47. His Class D eams won the league championships in 1957, finished second in 1958 and won again in 1959. This year's winner posted a 15-1 season mark.

M-A's B team won the 1957-58 SPAL crown and finished third this season after having to forfeit the title because of using an ineligible player. The Bs finished with identical 18-4 won-lost marks for the past two years.

Loftus coached all classes of basketball for two years at Sacred Heart in San Francisco before coming to M-A in 1952 as an English teacher. He moved into the physical education department in 1954 and took over lightweight basketball coaching in 1955.

Loftus lives in Palo Alto and has four children.

One of the most popular basketball tournaments on the Peninsula from the player standpoint, the Menlo-Atherton Class B Holiday Invitational, was introduced two seasons ago by coach Loftus.

George Washington of San Francisco nipped Menlo-Atherton teams both years for the championship, while six other of Northern California's top lightweight teams participated.

Water Polo, Swimming Coach:

Gaughran's First Cage Spot

Aiding this season with the Hoilday Tournament was Bob Gaughran, new Class B basketball coach succeeding Loftus. The 24-year-old ex-Sequoia High swimming and and water polo star joined the Menlo-Atherton coaching staff this year.

At College of Pacific, Gaughran was Most Valuable Player on the water polo team for three years. In 1957 he was a member of the San Francisco Olympic Club team that won the National AAU Outdoor Water Polo title.

This will be Gaughran's first experience with basketball coaching. His varsity and frosh-soph water polo teams won the SPAL championships this year and the Bear swimming teams are second in the league only to Sequoia.

Trojans Lose, 6-3:

Bruin-Cat Frosh-Sophs Tangle

Menlo - Atherton's up-and-down frosh-soph baseball team moved a notch closer to the league leader Tuesday with a 6-3 win over Ravenswood.

The win gave coach Bill Whitakers' Bruins a 4-1 SPAL mark, one-half game behind unbeaten Carlmont, 5-0. Menlo-Atherton travels to Redwood City Friday for a 3:15 p.m. clash with Woodside (2-3).

The Woodies gained a forfeit win over Palo Alto Tuesday and Carlmont won a 13-12 slugfest from Sequoia in other action. The loss was Sequoia's second eight-inning defeat in a row, giving them a 4-2 mark and third place standing.

In action last Friday, Carlmont whipped Woodside 10-8 and Ravenswood slipped past Cubberley, 6-2.

In Tuesday's Bear-Ravenswood game, the Trojans committed six errors in a disastrous second stanza, pushing across five Bear runs.

Jim Sarafinski relieved Marcellino Amesquita and pitched the final three innings of perfect ball for Ravenswood, but the damage had been done.

M-A collected only three hits while the Trojans had four.

Gary Emmick, MP Cyclist, Wins Three More Events

Cary Emmick, Menlo Park's bright motorcycle racing star, is "making hay while the sun shines" so to speak, as it appears his main competition may not show up until July, when his young brother, Ronnie, returns to action.

Gary won three events in the 12-card show last week, and hopes to repeat when the AMA sanctions their weekly program at Belmont Speedway tonight.

Included in the victories were two new track records. First, he lowered the 1-mile trophy dash mark, then came back to set a new record while winning the 15-lap main event.

Qualifying opens the shows at 7:30, followed by the first races at 3:30.

Emery Here Friday:

Acorns Outfumbled, Win 14-12

Menlo School will be shooting for its third Bay Counties League win in a row Friday, hosting a strong Emery nine at 3:30 p.m.

The Acorns now stand at 3-4 in BCAL play after outslugging and being outfumbled by Half Moon Bay last weekend, 14-12.

A total of 18 errors were committed in the contest, 10 by HMB and eight by the winning Acorns. Sophomore shortstop Butch McCormack doubled his season total of miscues by committing four for Menlo.

A pair of five-run innings (third and fifth) put the game away for Menlo, as the Acorns outhit HMB only 8-7.

George Roberts, Acorn first baseman, hit three doubles and drove in six runs.

Menlo used three pitchers in the fray, striking out four and walking five. Half Moon May sent two pitchers to the mound, fanning nine, and walking six.

George Bettencourt and Bill Housten both homered for HMB in the third inning.

New Book Released By MP Author, Marion Garthwaite

"The Mystery of Skull Cap Island," a new book by Marion Garthwaite of Menlo Park, well-known children's author and librarian, will be published April 23 by Doubleday.

Unlike the author's previous books ,all of which have a California background, this mystery-adventure for eight-to-twelve year-olds, takes place on an island near the Canadian border.

It is for a younger age group than her three other books for children, "Tomas and the Red Headed Angel," "Shaken Days" and "Coarse Gold Gulch."

Mrs. Garthwaite is also the author of two popular novels for teen-age girls, "You Just Never Know," an adventure in the High Sierra, and "Bright Particular Star," the story of a young librarian.

Mrs. Garthwaite has recently returned from a trip to Baja, California. She is children's librarian in the San Mateo County Library and this summer will again be lecturer on children's literature and story-telling at College of the Pacific.

'The Boy Friend' Ends Paly Run, Sausalito Next

Comedia ends its run of "The Boy Friend", Sandy Wilson's new musical comedy of the 1920s, at the Loft Theater this weekend. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8:30 and on Sunday there will be a matinee at 3.

On Friday, May 1, the whole company of 25 actors, singers, dancers, and technicians leaves for the Gate Theater in Sausalito, to begin a three-week tour.

At the Loft Theater in the interim will be Loretta Garcia and her flamenco dancers.

Bases-Loaded Homer Beats Woodside Nine in Eighth, 5-1

Woodside High School will be aiming for wins nine and 10 this week as it tangles with St. Francis of Mountain View today and Carlmont Friday at 3:15 p.m.

Coach Bob Poole's Wildcats came within a breath of upsetting one of the SPAL's top teams last weekend, losing an extra-inning 5-1 affair to Palo Alto's varsity.

Woodside had six sophomores in its seniorless first-year lineup, but fought the Vikes right down to the eight-inning wire. Tied 1-1, Palo Alto pushed across four runs off Wildcat pitcher Jerry Palmer in the top of the eighth.

Phil McCowan, relief pitcher, blasted a grand-slam homer to account for all the runs.

Sophomore Palmer had allowed only two hits during the first seven frames, and gave up a game total of four. He struck out 13 and walked only four.

Cubby Welch, Tim Johnson and Bill Jankord each had two hits for Woodside, with Jankord's single driving home Welch in the sixth frame to tie the score.

Each team committed one error. The loss was Woodside's fourth of the season compared with eight wins.

Gardener:

Lush Hanging Baskets Add Freshness

Visit a nursery on any summer day and you can't help notice the change. It's something like finding an oasis in a desert. Temperatures drop several degrees and there's a wonderful feeling of freshness all about.

If you stop to analyze the experience, you inevitably conclude that it's all those lush hanging baskets overhead. And you are right.

True, the other shrubs have something to do about it, as does frequent watering. But we have both shrubs and water in our own garden and however frequently we combint them, the effect isn't there without some color overhead. Make the comparison yourself if you doubt it.

Nurserymen are planning that summer show of hanging baskets right now. And if you want to reap full benefit of similar planting at home, you'd best take the hint and do likewise.

There's no problem about what to plant since your choice is wide. The most popular with nurserymen are Tuberous Begonias, Ivy Geranium and Fuchsias. But these are bn no means the only choices. Pigeon's-beak with its feathery gray foliage and crimson flowers if often seen in nurseries. Italian Bellflower's crisp green foliage and star-like white bloom lend a cooling touch. Annual trailing Lobelia and Petunias are not to be overlooked.

If choice is not the problem, however, the way you plant your choice can be. Don't put a single plant in a big hanging container. The best hanging Fuchsias we know were trained from three small plants in a single pot. Two begonia tubers will produce twice as many flowers as one. And so on.

Most important of all, keep a constant eye to watering yourt hanging baskets. We don't suggest you stand with hose in hand. But don't worry about overdoing it, either. With a hanging container, that's almost impossible to do.

SCENTED FOLIAGE?

To crush a carpet of thyme underfoot and whiff the heady odor that follows is an unforgettable experience. It rests in the memory for years—to be recalled whenever and wherever the fragrance of thyme is encountered.

And isn't it the same with other garden smells? Far more than sight, the never-changing aspects of smell can call up memories of another day, of a long-forgotten setting. Not only those pungent smells of certain flowers in bloom, but also those many shrubs which, like thyme, have scented foliage.

This aspect of gardening has been neglected of late and too bad that it has. Nurserymen report that few gardeners seek . . . or even seem aware of . . . scented foliage when they shop for shrubs. Yet each and every one of them who can smell must have a store of pleasant memories that one or another crushed leaf might release.

Eucalyptus, for instance, never fails to strike a note with gardeners who grew up in California. Nor do the various Junipers and Pines which, platned close by a patio, can be broken occasionally bettween the fingers and breathed in to heart's content.

GROUP FOUR of the Mr. and Mrs. Bridge section of the Menertons will meet on April 34 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. DeLano Fuller, 431 Laurel street, Menlo Park.

Nearly a No-Hitter:

Silly-Thrilly Game Trips Trojans 2-1 at Cupertino

It's been said that "anything can happen in a high school baseball game—and sometimes does!"

Tuesday quite a few things occurred in the Ravenswood-Cupertino prep game at Cupertino.

Cupertino nipped the Trojans 2-1 in a thriller all the way, scoring the winning run in the last of the seventh (ala Dodgers).

NO-HITTER, ALMOST

Harry Reese, losing pitcher for Ravenswood, was on his way to a no-hitter until the sixth inning when Cupertino's Harry Ellis opened the inning with a double. Then, with two out and the bases loaded, Morty Rose singled home Ellis to tie the game 1-1.

Ravenswood had scored its only run in the top of the sixth inning to break the five-inning scoreless tie. Doug Brownell provided the batting punch, aided by a quirk of luck and a tricky centerfield fence.

Here's what happened:

Brownell lined a base hit to centerfield that rolled all the way to the fence. Centerfielder Bob Briese, attempting to field it, got his shoe caught in the fence and couldn't get his foot loose. The Cupertino left fielder raced over to lend a helping hand (or foot) but in the meantime Brownell had circled the bags for a legitimate home run.

Ravenswood's fun was spoiled in the bottom of the seventh, however, when Steve Swetta singled, stole second and went to third on a throwing error by catcher Kelly Kropp.

He then scored on a wild pitch for the winning run, although catcher Kropp recovered the elusive ball and threw to pitcher Reese covering home in time—but Reese whirled the wrong way and missed the tag.

Reese, despite the loss, was impressive. He fanned 11, walked three and gave up three hits. Ravenswood got only two hits off five Cupertino pitchers, a single by Manuel DeLa-Cruz and Brownell's homer.

Ravenswood's next varsity baseball game is scheduled for May 6 at Palo Alto.

"Focus on Fabrics"

One-Hour Martinizing Receives Mammoth Fabric Book

M-A Band Concert Tomorrow Night

Menlo-Atherton's Music Department will produce its last major independent effort of the school year tomorrow night April 24, when the band presents the second of the annual Spring Concerts.

Admission for the 8:15 p.m. affair to be held in J building, will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for high school students. Children of grammar school age and younger will be admitted free.

The Dance Band, usually included in the latter Spring Concert, will not participate in Friday's program due to the fact that a separate concert was presented by that organization earlier in the year.

Edward Brown, head of the school's music department and conductor of the band, will feature one of his special arrangements, a rendition of Chaminade's "Concertino." Featured soloist for the number will be flutist Beth Hopler.

Other spotlighted numbers will include Ferde Grofe's "Death Valley Suite," a descriptive fantasy entitled "Stormy Weather," and "The Bremen Town Musicians," a comedy sketch narrated by Bob Reinhardt.

In addition, the program will include the traditional "Star Spangled Banner," Sousa's "Hand Across the Sea," and the currently popular "Colonel Bogey March."

New Officers Are Also Named:

Retarded Children's Guild Taps Localites as Members

Mrs. Robert Haumesser of Menlo Park and Mrs. F. N. Woods of Woodside are included in the group of provisionals who were welcomed to active membership in the Retarded Children's Guild on Wednesday April 22. The Los Altos Country Club was the setting for luncheon for the event.

Meeting earlier this month, the Guild elected officers for the coming term. Mrs. Paul T. Adams of Los Altos succeeds Mrs. Tadini Bacigalupi, Jr. as president. From this area incoming officers include Mrs. Frank S. Loyman, corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Linwood Ruff, financial secretary and Mrs. Alfred Schuchard, social chairman.

Plans for the summer camp for retarded children are rapidly taking shape, according to Mrs. William Best, chairman. So successful was last year's camp that the period has been extended to two weeks from August 26 to September 8, she reported. Through the cooperation of the Crippled Childrens Association, the facilities at Stevens Creek will again be used. A staff especially selected for their experience with retarded childeren will be on duty at the camp.

Twice as many children as last year, approximately fifty, will be accomodated this summer. Letters and applications to parent's groups throughout California have been mailed. The camp accepts children between the ages of 8 and 12 years.

Camperships are being made available so that any child who might benefit will have the opportunity to attend. Recently, the Menertons held a spring fashion show as a benefit for this project. A substantial check for the proceeds was presented to the guild by Mrs. John Clarke, Menerton president, and Mrs. Robert Rockwell, show chairman.

Fifth grade girls at Green Gables school in Palo Alto have made a patch work quilt, which is being donated to the Market of the Flea, operated by the Guild to raise funds for work with children. The proceeds will be used for camperships. Mrs. Pauline Kiehle, teacher, states that 14 girls, most of them 10 years old, worked on the project as part of their study of pioneer life.

Members of the Retarded Children's Guild serve at the Market of the Flea in Palo Alto where donated merchandise is sold, and as volunteers in the Nursery School located at the Children's Health Council on the Stanford Campus.

Assuming New Duties . . .
. . . for the membership of the Retarded Children's Guild will be (left to right) Mrs. Robert Haumesser of Menlo Park, who has just been welcomed into active status in the group; Mrs. Frank Lowman, who will serve as corresponding secretary for the coming year; and Mrs. Alfred Schuchard, recently selected as the Guild's social chairman.

CONGRAT'S

Congratulations to the new commissioners at M-A! They are: Welfare, Frank Lee; Administration, Hugh Smith; Culture, Bob Macri; School Spirit, Janna Osmond; Social, Joey Thorpe; Publicity, Nick Cann; Finance, Fran Miller; Publications, Nancy Hawkins; Girls' Athletics, Jeanne Treat; and Boys' Athletics, Rick Wright.

The names were officially announced by Mr. Coffis at the Commissioners' dance, "Mardi Gras," last Friday. As entertainment, Mr. Coffis' prize remarks captured many a chuckle. The other highlights of the evening were Roger Burpee and Mike Mallin doing a take-off on the Mike Wallace Interview! The Bagdad Trio was also there; they sang for the group in a style much like that of the Kingston Trio. Who doesn't enjoy that?

SURPRISERAMA

I can't get away from it! Everybody is surprising everyone else—it will never end until birthdays end.

On Saturday night, Sue Larson and Marty Schmitz gave Sally Thurman a birthday surprise dinner. Enjoying the party with the "girls" were Sally, Sue, Marty, Linda Davis, Judy Norcott, Pam Barbe and Wendy Ford. The peace didn't last long; after dinner, the boys invaded. Surprising the surprisers were Steve Kyle, Bruce Hopkins, Jack Leahy, Ken Sierra, John Smurr, Rick Bentley, John Berg, Tom Poore, Dave Majerus, Phil Dallas and Jim Clark. The fellas raided the birthday cake.

The other surprise was an annual one. Ever since their freshman year, Lia Jackson has given Cynthia Witbeck a surprise party for her birthday. This year, it was a breakfast at Kibby's. Last Friday morning the group gave Cynthia the party. Helping Cynthia enjoy the morning were Lia, Mary, Auralee Klika, Marilee Green, Diane Fors, Teressa Gerbo, Lil Edmundson, Sue Schwerin, Bonnie Elton, Sue McClennahan, Jane Brechler, Sheryl Dunn, Sue Betts, Julie Ann Schaffer, Lynne Livingston and Gayle Gowdy.

FORE 'N AFTER

After "Mardi Gras" Carol Leihy held a party. Dancing and swimming were Ann Hassbaum, Ed Scripps, Sue Leslie, Rich Tuttle, Sherry McDowell, Arden Jones, Pat Nielson, Jeep Jones, Barb Maider, Mike Fahay, Bonnie Bryson, Warren Werner, Carol Ackerman, Mac Brinton, Suzanne Horney, Lynn Larson, Sue Lampman, Roger Johnston, Carol Leihy, Phil Carr, Diane Van Epern, Tony Ford, Lin Skaff, Roger Etienne, Penny Sewell, Doug Hancock, Sally Christensen and Chuck Robertson.

After the dance, Judy Blake had a dinner party. Eating pizza—oh, those full stomachs—and listening to guitar music provided by the talent of the evening were Judy, Jim Kirkman, Lynne Caffar, Doc Davis, Jan Anderson, Dave Means, Judy Berger, John Ryan, Marge Morton and Steve Daly. The talent? It was Doc.

HAYMAN

Saturday night, the Algonquin Hi Y and Les Jeunes Filles Tri Y got together and had a hayride out at Searsville Lake where they had a weiner roast. The Key Notes sang for the group; the Key Notes were Paula Thayer, Dennis Clark and Judy Bromer. Roger Burpee, one of the drivers, gave "the wildest ride ever." Among the hayriders were Roger, Cindy Henderson, Jeep Jones, Suzanne Horney, Arden Jones, Diane Dexter, Chuck Ott, Cindy Gunderson, Lynn Larson, Lynne Caffar, Chuck Robertson, Bonnie Bryson, Warren Werner, Carol Leihy, Mac Chase, Paula Thayer, Dan Hirschboeck, Ann Whiting, Dan Hack, Bonnie Sexton, Rex Jones, Genie Weltner, Steve Fox, Sheryl Dunn, Doug Catchings, Karen Kent, John Weir, Margaret Mathews, Harry Hart, Rosi Dillehunt, Joe Tripiano, Sally Christensen, Tom Smith, Bob Brentenall and Bob Reinhardt.

Saturday night also saw a slumber party. The talkative group gathered at Sharon Cottrell's home and had a wonderful time—sleeping? The girls were Sharon, Sheila Perry Ann Fehring, Kathy Berry, Patty Patterson, Peppy Brown, Georgia Keck, Sandy Roth Gloria Gallant, Paula Gallant, Sally Sjostrom, Marilyn Miller, Denny Young, Louise Du Fresne, Carolyn Drescher, Fran Gomez, Sue Moffat, Shirley McLaren, Peggy Biocini, Robin Rosentrater, Sue Treig, Sarah Stapleton and Jane Stapleton.

The Intercollegiate Ball at the Bay Meadows Club House was blessed with a few M-Aites. Enjoying the Hi Lo's and Ray Hackett's band were Johnny Christensen, Terry Rudolph Ghazi Sultan (from India), Sue Betts, Roger Burpee and Cindy Henderson. The group had dinner at the Sakura Gardens
